

How can we hear the whisper of God's call in our loud modern American culture?

We all have something good to offer to society, something that would benefit others. God calls us every day to do good in our world, but sometimes we do not listen to him. Many people in today's society are oblivious to God's calling because of violence, materialism, and economic struggles. However, by praying, attending Mass, and performing good works, we can redeem ourselves.

Praying is an important part of our relationship with God. Praying with God can give you hope and strength and also reminds you to do the right thing.

Attending Mass each Sunday provides you with peace and enables you to hear God's Word. Through the Scriptures and Homilies, we can see what Jesus, our role model, would do in various situations.

Performing good works can also enable you to hear God's calling. By doing service projects, you can see God in every person. Even just smiling or holding open a door for someone can brighten his or her day.

God calls us to do good in our world and he gives us chances to hear his voice. By praying, attending Mass, and performing good works, you can hear his voice. He calls softly, so listen closely
